Foreword

The yearbook staff has chosen the theme "The Past Makes the Future" because we believe that it is doubly appropriate as the college celebrates its 75th anniversary and as we take a good look at the years behind us. Through the emphasis that has been placed on the past progress and the achievements of the college, we have seen how the past has made the future what it is today, and how it is molding the future as it will be tomorrow.

In this yearbook, we will endeavor to present our school year in the light of what all the experiences of the year have done to "build each complete life" and to make each of us better equipped to face the future with our hopes and aspirations high.

Because you are:

A teacher. . .

whose questioning mind has inspired in us the same spirit
. . .whose very life is dedicated to learning. . .and whose influence spreads far beyond these walls. . .

A friend. . .

whose insight, tolerance, and enthusiastic love of life have endeared her to us. . .

We take the greatest pleasure in dedicating this 1960-1961 Na-

Past

Elizabeth Harrison, founder and first president of National College of Education, began her training school at 10 E. Van Buren, Chicago, in 1886 with the simple purpose of "training young women to understand and to properly educate little children." Throughout her life, Miss Harrison worked toward this goal.

The years from 1886 to 1920 were hard ones for the new school, but under Miss Harrison's wise leadership, the school flourished, changing its location twice and also its name. At this time Miss Harrison was traveling through the United States and Europe and writing several books including The Study of Child Nature. A scholarship was set up in 1905 in her name for the benefit of prospective elementary school teachers.

Miss Harrison retired in 1920, but her influence and high ideals of teaching have remained with the college even to this day.

Presidents

Edna Dean Baker, second president of the College, began her years here as a student, and spent many years serving National--first as assistant to the president and later president.

During her years as president, the College continued to grow. In 1926 the location was again changed, this time to the beautiful building on Sheridan Road in Evanston. An integrated four-year college program for elementary, nursery and kindergarten teachers was developed.

In addition to the guidance she provided at the College, Miss Baker traveled to all parts of the world, served as officers of many professional organizations and wrote many books, including Adventures in Higher Education, the story of National College of Education.

Through her zeal and determination she carried the college through many hazards to make it universally known for its broad social outlook and its sound guidance of those individuals planning to make teaching a career.

75TH

ANNIVERSARY

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Dear Students:

This year National College of Education is celebrating the 75th anniversary of its founding, and those of us who belong to the N.C.E. family at this time are privileged to be a part of this important year. We are not so concerned with singing the praises of past glories--as important as that may be--as we are with taking time to reappraise our goals and objectives.

Our heritage is a rich one and reflects the dedication of many noble men and women who have helped build our college during the past seventy-five years. Our anniversary committee chose for its theme for the year "Building Each Complete Life." I can think of no better slogan for our school, as this has been the goal from the beginning when Elizabeth Harrison, our first president, founded the college in 1886. This certainly was the objective of Edna Dean Baker, who was the second president, serving from 1920 to 1949. Through these years our educational reputation was being built in this country and throughout the world. The individual and what was best for his development formed the basic structure of our curriculum.

In the world in which we live we are constantly challenged, and more and more we realize the importance of individual dignities and basic values. Our children, as they mature to adulthood, need an inner emotional and spiritual security that we hope will come from worthwhile experiences in their formative years.

Our Diamond Jubilee gives us the privilege of setting our goals and plotting our course for the years that lie ahead. The world that we will live in at the centennial of National College of Education will be quite different from the world we know today. Will the adults then, who are children today, look with pride on the educational experiences they received in school or will they feel that they were "short changed" because teachers and parents failed to give them what was due them to develop to their fullest?

Most all of you who are graduating are going into teaching. This is a privilege as you will be helping youngsters build the foundation in their lives that will help make our 75th anniversary theme a reality in "Building Each Complete Life."

Sincerely yours,

K. Richard Johnson

Wren Staley

In 1934 a lady from Kentucky joined the staff of NCE as the first Dean of Students. In the years that have followed, Wren Staley has become close to the hearts of NCE students and faculty. She represents the very spirit of the college.

Miss Staley's great devotion to education began early in her life, and at seventeen she was teaching in a one-room school; after that she went on to teach at all grade levels.

Her excellence as a teacher augmented by her great love of finding new insights into her greatest interests--English and Latin. Class sessions with Miss Staley not only are intellectually stimulating, but are filled with her humor.

Wren Staley is loved by students and faculty here at NCE, not only for her excellence as a teacher, but also for her deep concern for all whom she knows. Our thanks and love to her for the many years she has given to National College of Education.

The Graduate School

The graduate school at N. C. E., like its undergraduate counterpart, is dedicated to elementary school children as it provides advanced preparation to those who professionally serve in elementary schools. It is deeply concerned with the development of teachers, guidance personnell, and administrators who possess the highest qualities of character, commitment, and professional competence.

A unique feature of the N. C. E. situation is the essentially intimate relationship of the Graduate School to the rest of the college. All ages and many different levels of educational endeavor mingle in the same hallways and classrooms. This makes for a friendly and democratic atmosphere in line with the best definition of an educational environment.

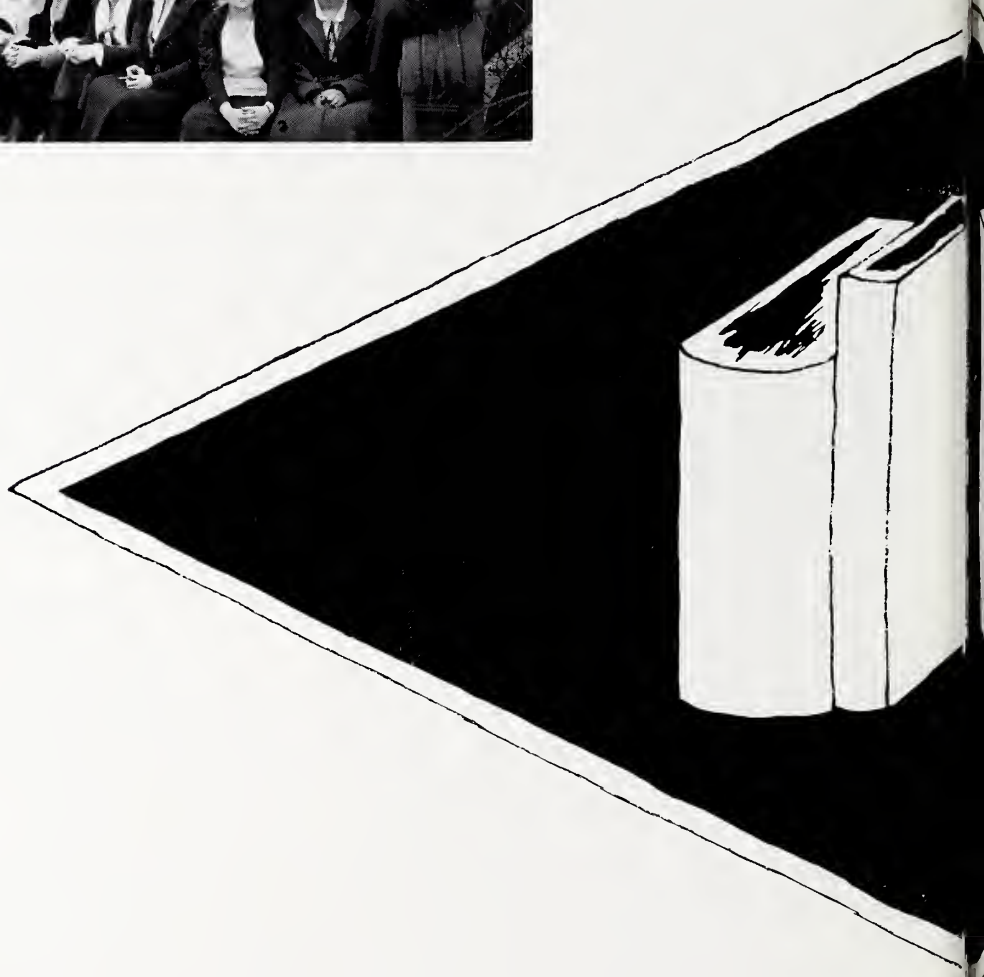

The Graduate School program was officially opened in the summer session of 1952. By 1960-61 more than three hundred persons have received M. Ed. degrees. The student body of the Graduate School is composed of about one dozen full-time students and about four-hundred part-time enrollees. Approximately eight courses are offered to graduate students. Most of the members of the graduate school faculty also teach in the undergraduate college, and some of them also teach in the Children's School.

The Graduate School will continue to grow as advanced preparation becomes more and more necessary to maintain professional standards.

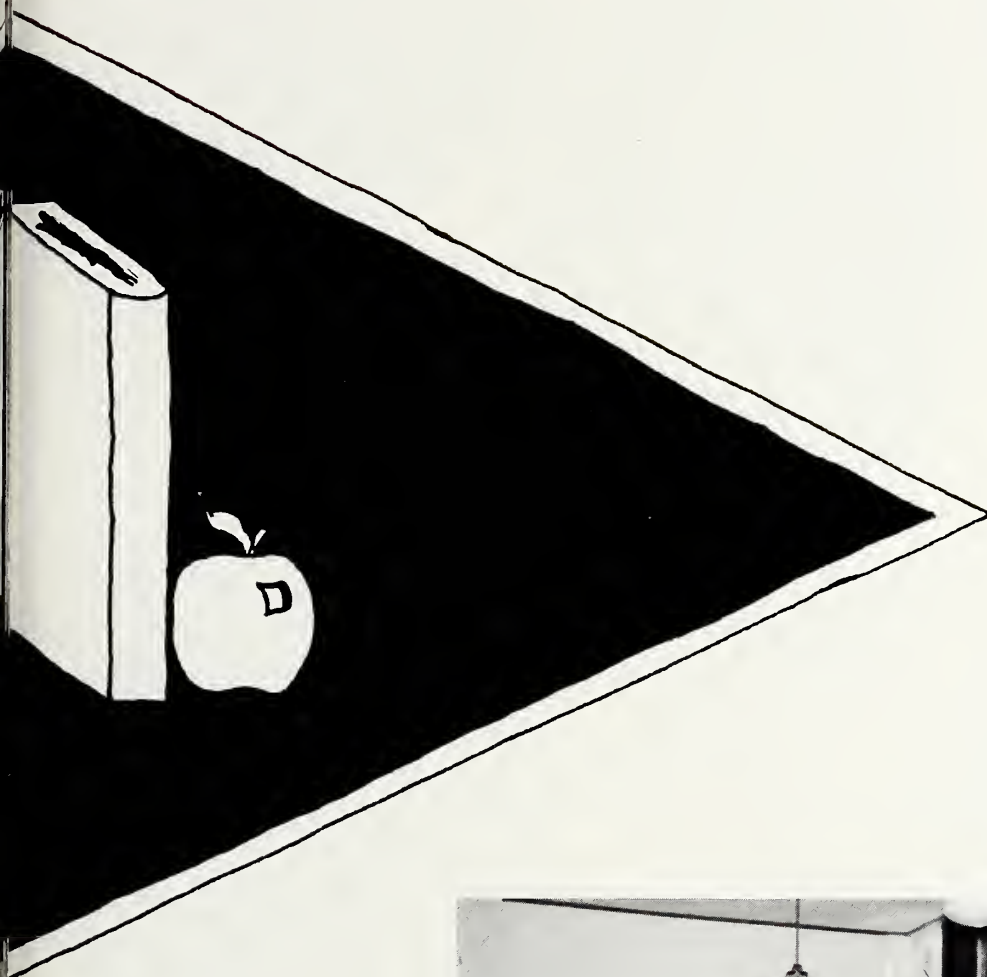

Lewis Troyer

Dean of the Graduate School

Scholarships

Three honorary scholarships are awarded for the senior year to high-ranking juniors for excellence in scholarship, teaching ability and character.

The Elizabeth Harrison Scholarship went to Helen Kniskern,

Mrs. John N. Crouse Scholarship went to Sandra Seifert.

The Eva Grace Long Scholarship went to Margaret McDowell.

Teaching Scholarships for seniors are given at the end of each year to members of the Junior Class in recognition of teaching ability. The recipients do their student teaching at the Mary Crane Nursery School of Hull House in Chicago. These recipients are:

Arlet Blake
Wynne Grossman
Sylvia Tyler

Fun and frolic, accompanied by responsibilities, filled the past year for the Class of '62. The "jolly juniors" enjoyed the various projects of their class, including the candy sale and parties, which served to raise funds for the Junior-Senior Prom, held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel on May 20. On the 13th of the same month, the juniors entertained the seniors with a luncheon. Under the leadership of Mary Cox and the other class officers and under the sponsorship of Mrs. Woosley, the junior class had a rewarding year of experiences which will prove assets to them as next year's seniors.

"Why Not" be in the Sophomore Class? Their mixer, with this intriguing title, exhibiting the spirit of the sophomores was the first of the year's social activities of the Class of '63. Their projects included the sale of student directories, bake sales and parties, and finally the Daisy Chain and song to the seniors. Sophomores followed their president, Mary Karas, and the other well-chosen officers through the year with the same enthusiasm which has given and will continue to give vigorous support to N. C. E.

This enthusiastic Class of '64, led by Nancy Wehrli and its other capable officers, with Dr. Cantelupe as sponsor, had projects of great variety this year. Bake sales helped finance the February dance which was a pleasant occasion for all who attended. Novel ideas of the freshmen were carried out in the decorations for the Thanksgiving Assembly and All-College Mixer and the traditional Christmas spirit prevailed at the tree-trimming party, which the freshmen shared with the seniors. These activities reflected the genuine interest which the Class of '64 will surely retain through three more successful years at N. C. E.

College Council, one of the most influential organizations at National, is a body of students and members of the faculty. Its forty-five student members, who are representatives of the graduate school, of the four college classes, and of clubs and other organizations, are chosen by their fellow students. They are ably assisted by members of the faculty. The most important functions of the College Council are to provide leadership in the school and to discuss school issues. Members coordinate such activities as the May Festival, the carnival and other school activities.

Kappa Delta Pi

Theta Eta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi is the national honor society dedicated to the development and preservation of high standards of future teachers. Members are selected from the junior and senior classes and from the graduate school, for their high scholastic ability and fine character. Initiation ceremonies were followed by the Freshman Tea and several other programs were highlights of the year.

Ambassadors

One of the best explanations for the great number of friends gained by the College each year is simply Ambassadors. This friendly group helps the Admissions Office welcome new and prospective students, their families and other people new to the College. These services were needed even more with the increased number of functions of the 75th year.

Under the leadership of Sue Bohon, president, and Mr. Grafman, faculty sponsor, Ambassadors enjoyed a friendly and fulfilling year.

National

Producing an anniversary yearbook has been an exciting challenge to the editors and staff of this year's NATIONAL. With the many events connected with the 75th year, there has been a wealth of activities to cover and many reminders of the college's history to be included. It is with pleasure and a sense of accomplishment that the yearbook staff presents this book to the students- - a reminder of the year of 1960-1961 at National.

Chaff

CHAFF, the College newspaper, informed and entertained its readers - students, faculty, family and friends-with news, features, editorials and pictures. Under the leadership of Betty Jo Ohmstead and Betty Lou Huddleston, and with the invaluable aid of Mrs. Zinn and Mrs. Galvarro, the staff produced consistently fine editions eagerly read by all.

ROW 2: L. Thomas, social chairman; A. Paruolo, publicity chairman; J. Lauer, C. Hazel, treasurer; S. Hirata, secretary

Dorm Association

This year at the dormitory has been an unusually busy and exciting one with the many special events of the 75th anniversary held there. In addition, under the leadership of the dorm officers and under the direction of the housemothers, Mrs. Davlin and Mrs. Kauth, the girls have enjoyed many parties, mixers, special dinners and other activities.

L. to R.: A Splinter, vice-president; L. Demas, treasurer; Miss Springstun, sponsor; S. Seifert, president; K. Robins, social chairman

Town Association

Town Association is the organization for all National students who are not living in the dormitory. This year it has sponsored many special events including a Big-Little Sister party, the Christmas dinner, and the family dinner. Under the sponsorship of Miss Springstun, this organization has served to provide activities to build school spirit and unity.

Choir

The busy National College choir again sang its way through a music-filled year. Early in the year the choir held a gala reunion for all those alumni who were members of the choir. The Christmas season was especially busy for the choir as it presented "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and the "Messiah". To add to the spirit of the Christmas season, the choir caroled at Great Lakes and in the halls of the college. Mid-year and June commencements were two other events in which the choir participated.

M. E. N. C.

Music Educators' National Conference is an organization devoted to the advancement of music education. Members of MENC have enjoyed a music-filled year, as they took trips to hear famous artists perform, and as they held informal programs of their own. Under the guidance of Jill Peterson, president, and Miss Hunter, sponsor, members have had an interesting and fun-filled year.

Drama Club

Members of Drama Club found their year filled with the many projects sponsored by the club. Fall and spring plays, directed by the club's sponsors, Mrs. Lindman and Dr. Kidder, involved many of the members. Monthly meetings at the activity hour kept interest at a high level. As a culminating activity, members worked to make the May Pageant an exciting experience for all.

Dance Group

Graceful bodies and flying figures characterized Dance Group as they worked towards promoting interest in both modern and classical dance. Through much diligent practice, they gained new skills in their art. In addition to performing for school programs, members have made several excursions to performances of professional artists.

ROW 1: S. Chaplinski, M. Catemis, M. J. Langdon, D. Boroviak, J. Trybus, Miss Adams

ROW 4: S. Seifert, S. Coll, P. Hayes, L. Andreen, L. King, E. McGraw, V. Vespa, P. Jesse, B. Hanna

The Association for Childhood Education is a student chapter of the Association for Childhood Education International and the Illinois Association for Childhood Education. This is the only professional organization at National. Miss Adams, Marge Catemis, and the other officers have worked to bring several professional speakers including Miss Clara Belle Baker to the meetings. Some of the other activities sponsored by A. C. E. were a teacher interview in January, a workshop with Human Relations Club in December, and a party for the graduates in May.

 Bohon, S. Tyler, S. Loeb, J. Nishigaya

International Club

International Club is dedicated to the purpose of helping members develop better understanding of people of other countries. The way in which the members have accomplished their purposes have been amply illustrated this year. A magazine drive for foreign students overseas, a Christmas tea, a pot-luck supper featuring the foods of other lands, and other activities have contributed to the goals of service and learning. Led by Amy Shimabukuro, president, and Miss Neumann faculty sponor, International Club, had a very successful year.

Human Relations Club

The Human Relations Club saw its first year at National. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Moore and the presidency of Barbara Kay, the club, formerly known as Y. W. C. A., flourished. Its purpose was to achieve a means of bettering relationships among people by understanding them and respecting their ideas. To aid in fulfilling this purpose, representatives of both political parties were invited to speak to the group. There were also several speakers on various other controversial issues of today.

Row 1: S. Rushin, H. Lucas, A. Ubbinga, S. Childs, Mr. Hardy
 Row 2: B. Brown, S. Youssi, E. Eiras, A. VanLake, J. Hauser, E. Burnett, M. Turner

 Row 4: J. Hirota, P. Scaccia, M. Ruh, L. Clayton, J. Skoglund
 Row 5: J. Decker, S. Chaplinski, N. Moore, V. Vespa

Athletic Club

The Athletic Club, guided this year by Mr. Hardy, sponsor, and Shirley Childs, president, kept all athletically minded National girls active and fit all year. About one hundred and fifty girls participated in their choice of sports. In an effort to develop wider contacts, the club participated in "sports days" with several neighboring colleges. Many students found pleasure in participating in tournaments such as volley ball, badminton, and archery.

Human Relations: Now to my way of thinking, you should think for yourself.

Daisy Chain Song - 1960

Music by Bizet from "Carmen"
Words by Daisy Chain Committee

From man-y days at N. C. E. you'll car-ry on with you. Our wish-es for the com-ing years fond hopes and mem'-ries too. There may per- haps in all of your fu- ture days

Some re-col-lec-tions be of times that have as hap- py been and you'll re- mem-ber N. C.

E. And you'll re- mem-ber our dear N. C. E.

Daisy Chain 1960

Each year at June graduation finds members of the Sophomore Class preparing for the Daisy Chain, a favorite tradition at the college. Since its beginning in 1923, white-clad sophomores have woven the chain of daisies, through which the seniors march as they take part in commencement ceremonies. Following the exercises, a song of farewell written by sophomores is sung to the seniors, who in turn sing a reply. One of the loveliest traditions at national, the Daisy Chain symbolizes the spirit of friendship that is remembered long after graduation day.

Acknowledgement

Our sincere thanks and appreciation go to these people who have helped to make this yearbook a reality:

Mrs. Pauline Galvarro, sponsor and advisor, whose patience and guidance have been instrumental in the production of this yearbook;

Mr. Joseph Vogel, of Artmaster Yearbook Company, who has helped us through the maze of technical details;

Mr. Anthony Comunale, of Marshall Studio, whose cooperation and fine end results have contributed so much to our yearbook;

The faculty and students of the college, whose interest and help have provided support for their yearbook.
